Aarav is a long-time freelance writer who loves to write classical music from Bollywood movies. A great singer and his greatest songs Who thought Arijit Singh would be where he is today? No one, not even Singh himself. Back in Fame Gurukul, he couldn't even make it to the top five. Even if the potential was there, the nuances of a reality show canon and the audience vote sometimes don't appreciate talent. To say that he rules Bollywood's clubs to sing will be a euphemism. Coming from a family where most members are somehow connected to music, the fact that they joined the music field was a fact. His soul-filled voice gives me the creeps, and I know it's true for you, too. Going from the kind of songs that has been there has done that all kinds of singers. Whether it is romantic (Janam Janam, Har Kisi Ko Nahi Milta), or emotional (Duaa), or intense (Laal Ishq), playful (Dilliwali Girlfriend), or even comical (Ullu Ka Pattha, Galti Se Mistake). One day we will definitely see a biographical film about him. If the '60s and '70s were for Rafi and Kishore, the '90s were for Kumar Sanu and Udit Narayan, then this decade really belongs to Arijit Singh. I am a big fan of his singing and each song is better than the other. However, here is the list of Arijit Singh's best songs for your collection.
