With myself in spanish

Image: Image source / photodiscina / getty images as in any language, Spanish speakers are available in a wide range of fluidity. Even mother tongue, people who have learned Spanish as their first language, vary in general in their knowledge of the language. Many speakers have learned Spanish at home but has never learned grammar and official spelling. Others may have learned Spanish at school and has acquired all formal Spaniards, yet when it comes to surviving an informal conversation, they can also speak Chinese. Where are you on your journey in language? Travel with a dictionary or watch the words on your phone any other sentence? Dreams in Spanish? Some say that once you start dreaming in a foreign language, you have reached a higher level of fluidity - you are starting to elaborate information in the new language subconsciously. Learning A new language gives us more than the ability to communicate in a new language. Opens a portal in the culture that gave birth to the language first. As the language and culture are so intertwined, gaining fluidity lets you enter a culture in ways that you have stuck if you don't talk about the language. Are you flowing, skillful or simply dangerous with a dictionary? Translate these questions into answers, and we'll tell you what others feel when you speak Spanish!
