by Sophia Green Updated 11/23/2020 / Android Hotfix Update My phone ran out of battery so I plugged it in and charged it. I tried to turn it on and I saw "Firmware update. Don't unplug USB until process is complete." That's all it showed and now it's hung. It won't turn on or off. Stuck at 6% for 8 hours. I don't have a battery that can be removed. What can I do? If your phone suddenly freezes on the firmware update screen, you are not alone. This problem is quite common among Android users. What's worse is that you often don't understand the reasons that could have caused the problem. But luckily, this problem can be easily solved with simple methods. We have compiled various solutions, which will help users to fix Android phone stuck on firmware update screen. So read on! Android phone stuck during firmware update is a temporary problem and can be fixed without any technical problems. Here are two of the easiest ways to fix this problem once and for all. Phone Stuck Samsung #1? Fix with ReiBoot for Android No need to worry about your Samsung cell phone getting stuck on the firmware update screen for seemingly no reason du. You can find a lot of third-party tools on the Internet to solve this problem, but none of them are better than ReiBoot for Android in terms of efficiency and reliability. Tenorshare ReiBoot for Android diagnoses the root causes of Samsung stuck problems and fixes them automatically. Connect your Samsung phone to your computer and open ReiBoot for Android. In the main interface, click "Restore Android". Click "Fix Now" to continue. Enter your Samsung device information. Use the drop-down arrow to enter information. Click Download. Download the latest firmware package for your Samsung mobile phone. Do not turn off your phone during the download process. After downloading the firmware package, click "Repair Now" to start repairing your Samsung mobile phone. A pop-up window will appear. Read the instructions carefully and click Continue. After that, you need to enter the download mode by following the on-screen instructions to enable USB debugging on your Android device. When USB debugging is enabled, click "One click to clear system cache" in the main interface. ReiBoot takes some time to clear the cache. Do not disconnect the mobile phone during the process. Overall, this article describes various ways to fix Android stuck on firmware update issue. All the above methods are useful to restore the phone to normal state, but Tenorshare ReiBoot for Android is the fastest and easiest way to solve this problem. It will not cause any harm to your phone or the data stored in it and you can use it with 100% confidence. Many Android users are facing a strange problem where the phone is connected to WiFi but not showing the internet. This can be very annoying and frustrating, especially if you don't know what is causing the problem. If you are currently facing this issue, here are some simple steps to troubleshoot your Wi-Fi connection. Here we will look at different ways to fix Android connected to wifi but no internet problem on phone. Related | 11 Ways to Fix Wi-Fi Disconnecting and Reconnecting in Android Fix Android is connected to Wi-Fi but no internet issues. 1. Disconnect and reconnect Wi-Fi. The first thing you need to do is disconnect and reconnect to your Wi-Fi network. It may sound very simple, but it solves about half of your Wi-Fi problems for Android. So if your phone doesn't connect to the internet even when Wi-Fi is active, turn Wi-Fi off and back on to see if that fixes the problem. 2. Forget Wi-Fi This solution is just an updated version of the fix above and it works most of the time. All you need to do is forget the Wi-Fi network you are connected to and then try to connect again. 1. Go to Settings > Network & Internet > Wi-Fi on your Android phone. 2. Click here the Wi-Fi network you are having trouble with. 3. Tap Forget and reconnect to Wi-Fi to forget and disconnect Wi-Fi. Now, make sure you are entering the correct password; otherwise, it still says "Connecting, Saved" and unable to connect to Wi-Fi. If you forgot your password, learn how to view the passwords of connected Wi-Fi networks. 3. Find out if your internet is working All ISPs have a web control panel or app to connect to and manage your wireless broadband account. You can check whether the connection is active or not by logging into your dashboard. In my case, you can see that the Excitel service and the connection are active. Alternatively, you can also check the lights on your router to see if anything abnormal is going on. There may also be a failure of the Internet Service Provider. Call your ISP's customer service department to see if there is a problem with the service in your area. Check your router settings. Restart the router. Your router may be causing the problem. Restarting the router works in these scenarios. It will reconnect to the line and start working normally. If not, check your router's control panel to see if your router is blocking network traffic. Disable Traffic Control Open a browser on your computer and go to your router dashboard. Go to the "Advanced" tab and select "Traffic management". If it is on, turn it off and check if the internet works on your phone. Resetting the Router Another option is to reset the router. This will reset all existing settings and configurations and start up with factory defaults. Routers usually have a reset hole where you can insert a SIM eject tool to force a reset. If you can't find it, check your router's manual. Alternatively, you can log into your router's control panel or app, go to System or Configuration, and select Reset. Update your router firmware Is there a firmware update available for your Wi-Fi router? In this case, enter the Wi-Fi panel and allow the firmware update. This may fix connectivity and performance issues with the router, or bugs identified by the manufacturer. Related - 6 Ways to Fix Android Can't Connect to Wi-Fi But Says Backup Saved 5. Changing DNS servers DNS servers help you translate website links into IP addresses. If the internet is not working on your Android phone even though it is connected to Wi-Fi, the problem might be with your ISP's domain server. You can try switching to a different DNS server to fix the issue as shown below. Switch to Google DNS. 1. Open settings on your phone. 2. Go to the Network and Internet section. 3. Click Private DNS here. 4. Change it from automatic to the hostname of your private DNS provider. 5. Then enter dns.google in the Hostname field. Click Save. Switch to Cloudflare DNS. Alternatively, you can switch to Cloudflare DNS by typing one.one.one.one or 1dot1dot1dot1.cloudflare-dns.com. You can also enable it from Cloudflare App: 1. Install APP 1.1.1.1 from Google Play or App Store. 2. Open the app and accept the terms. 3. Press "Menu" and select 1.1.1.1. 4. Then go back and turn on the switch. Changing DNS settings for Wi-Fi Changing DNS using the above methods will also overwrite your Wi-Fi settings. However, you have the option to change the DNS separately in the Wi-Fi settings. This may fix the Wi-Fi connection, but not the internet connection message. To do this: 1. Go to WiFi settings and click WiFi. 2. Pressor change network. Change the IP settings to Static. 3. Now you can enter your own DNS address in DNS1 and DNS2. 6. Check Your Date and Time Settings Another thing to check is the date and time on your phone. Incorrect date and time settings can cause problems. To fix it: 1. Open "Settings" on your Android phone. 2. Go to System > Date & Time. 3. Switch on the "Set time automatically" and "Set time zone automatically" switches here. Your phone will automatically sync and adjust the time based on your network and location. Enable MAC address randomization in developer options solved the problem of connecting to WiFi without internet on Android. Once activated, your Android device's MAC address will change every time you connect to a network. To enable MAC address randomization: 1. Open Settings, scroll down and tap About phone. 2. Here, tap the build number seven times to enable developer options. 3. Now go back to Settings > System > Developer Options. 4. Turn on the switch to not permanently randomize WiFi MAC addresses. 8. Wi-Fi update (Android 12) Android 12 includes a shortcut to reset your phone's internet settings. It allows you to quickly reset the current connection settings and update the Wi-Fi network as shown below: 1. On your phone, go to Settings > Network & Internet. 2. Click here on Internet. 3. Click the reset icon in the top right corner. Your Android phone will now refresh your phone's Wi-Fi and mobile data connection, and then reconnect to your last used or favorite local network. 9. Reset network settings on Android If you are still having trouble connecting to the internet via Wi-Fi on your Android phone, we recommend that you reset network settings. This only resets the network settings and does not affect other data. Here's how: 1. Open "Settings" on your Android phone. 2. Scroll down and select System > Reset options. 3. From here, tap on "Reset Wi-Fi, Cellular & Bluetooth". 4. Tap Reset settings to confirm. You-Wi-Fi passwords, Bluetooth connections and mobile network settings are reset. Now you need to reconnect to the Wi-Fi network. Other fixes for Wi-Fi connection but no internet on Android In addition to the solutions above, you can try the following methods to see if they fix your connection issues: Uninstall or pause any app that changes or modifies your phone's network settings, including VPNs. . firewall or DNS changer application. Factory reset your Android phone. All data, including personal files, will be reset. Therefore, make a deposit in advance. Check if the same issue is occurring on other devices. If so, contact your ISP. These fixes will most likely solve the problems with your network device, but if none of them worked for you, you need to contact your ISP for help and gadget reviews, join the GadgetsToUse Telegram group, or subscribe to the GadgetsToUse YouTube channel. last update. view the video.
