They should involve easily remembered personal events or details that are not subject to change. Do not invent stories that may not be remembered during an actual recovery - due to pain or the stress of the situation. Do not use memories subject to change (i.e., My favorite ice cream is ..., My current dog is ..., etc.). Avoid using culturally sensitive information - something that might cause embarrassment if disclosed, be culturally offensive, or aggravate an ally or friendly civilian that may assist in recovery - e.g., no derogatory or sexually oriented statements, diseases, or bodily functions.
(b) This data may be used to authenticate the author's identity prior to combat recovery to ensure the safety of the recovery force.
(c) A recovery force must be able to make a minimum of four questions from each statement to authenticate you. Examples: "While living in Porter, Oklahoma, in 1972, I had a black and tan Doberman named Crockett." At least four questions can be made from this statement:
(1) Question: What state did you live in during 1972? Answer: Oklahoma.
(2) Question: What town did you live in during 1972? Answer: Porter.
(3) Question: What was your dog's name in 1972? Answer: Crockett.
(4) Question: What color was your dog in 1972? Answer: Black and tan.
Block 54: Authentication Number: Enter an easily remembered four digit number. The authentication number must be able to produce as many separate questions and responses as possible by addition, subtraction, or multiplication of the four digits. Examples of good numbers are: 8142, 6392, and 3463. Do not use the last four digits of your SSN. The following are examples that should not be used as an authentication number:

(2) Do not use numbers in sequence of three or more (i.e., 1234, 8762).
