var request2 = UrlFetchApp.fetchAll([request1, request2]);
Parameters NameTypeDescription requestsObject[] An array of either URLs or JavaScript objects specifying requests as defined below. Return HTTPResponse - The HTTP response data. Scripts that use this method require authorization with one or more of the following scopes: Returns the request that is made if the operation was invoked. Requests made using this service originate from a set pool of IP ranges. Return HTTPResponse[] - An array of HTTP response data from each input request. The default is false. var response = UrlFetchApp.fetch(" "); Logger.log(response.getContentText());
Parameters NameTypeDescription urlString The URL to fetch. In most cases Apps Script automatically detects and includes the scopes a script needs, but if you are setting your scopes explicitly you must manually add this scope to use UrlFetchApp. You can look up the full list of IP addresses if you need to allowlist or approve these requests. Certain HTTP methods (for example, GET) do not accept a payload. Advanced parameters NameTypeDescription urlStringThe URL to fetch. contentTypeStringThe content type (defaults to 'application/x-www-form-urlencoded'). payloadStringThe payload (that is, the POST body) for the request. JavaScript is a registered trademark of Oracle and/or its affiliates. Return Object - A map of Field Name to Value. This instructs fetch to resolve the specified URL within the intranet linked to your domain through (deprecated) SDC validateHttpsCertificatesBooleanIf false the fetch ignores any invalid certificates for HTTPS requests. This service requires the scope. // Make both a POST request with form data, and a GET request. Scripts that use this method require authorization with one or more of the following scopes: Except as otherwise noted, the content of this page is licensed under the Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 License, and code samples are licensed under the Apache 2.0 License. The default is true. A JavaScript object is interpreted as a map of form field names to values, where the values can be either strings or blobs. Last updated 2021-08-31 UTC. useIntranetBooleanDeprecated. headersObjectA JavaScript key/value map of HTTP headers for the request methodStringThe HTTP method for the request: get, delete, patch, post, or put. This method does not actually issue the request. var response = UrlFetchApp.fetch(" "); Logger.log(response.getContentText()); // Make a POST request with form data. For details, see the Google Developers Site Policies. escapingBooleanIf false reserved characters in the URL aren't escaped. It can be a string, a byte array, a blob, or a JavaScript object. (No need to specify contentType; it defaults to either 'application/x-www-form-urlencoded' or 'multipart/form-data') var request1 = { 'url': ' ', 'method': 'post', 'payload': formData }; // A request may also just be a URL. The map has at least the following keys: url, method, contentType, payload, and headers. // The code below logs the HTML code of the Google home page. muteHttpExceptionsBooleanIf true, the fetch doesn't throw an exception if the response code indicates failure, and instead returns the HTTPResponse. paramsObjectThe optional JavaScript object specifying advanced parameters as defined below. var data = { 'name': 'Bob Smith', 'age': 35, 'pets': ['fido', 'fluffy'] }; var options = { 'method': 'post', 'contentType': 'application/json' }; // Convert the JavaScript object to a JSON string. // The code below logs the value for every key of the returned map. UrlFetchApp.fetch(resources) and communicate with other hosts over the Internet. followRedirectsBooleanIf false the fetch doesn't automatically follow HTTP redirects; it returns the original HTTP response. paramsObjectAn optional JavaScript object specifying advanced parameters as defined below. escapingBooleanIf false reserved characters in the URL aren't escaped. The default is get. The URL Fetch service uses Google's network infrastructure for efficiency and scaling purposes. Advanced parameters NameTypeDescription contentTypeStringThe content type (defaults to 'application/x-www-form-urlencoded'). Scripts that use this method require authorization with one or more of the following scopes: Makes a request to fetch a URL using optional advanced parameters. var resumeBlob = Utilities.newBlob('Hire me!', 'text/plain', 'resume.txt'); var formData = { 'name': 'Bob Smith', 'email': 'bob@example.com', 'resume': resumeBlob }; // Because payload is a JavaScript object, it is interpreted as // as form data. muteHttpExceptionsBooleanIf true the fetch doesn't throw an exception if the response code indicates failure, and instead returns the HTTPResponse. Another example of content type is 'application/xml; charset=utf-8'. This service allows scripts to communicate with other resources on the web by fetching URLs. A script can use the URL Fetch service to issue HTTP and HTTPS requests and receive responses. Scripts that use this method require authorization with one or more of the following scopes: Returns the request that is made if the operation was invoked. (No need to specify contentType; it automatically // defaults to either 'application/x-www-form-urlencoded' // or 'multipart/form-data') var options = { 'method': 'post', 'payload': formData }; UrlFetchApp.fetch(" ", options); // Make a POST request with a JSON payload. See also HTTPResponse Setting explicit scopes Makes a request to fetch a URL. 'payload': JSON.stringify(data) }; UrlFetchApp.fetch(" ", options); Parameters NameTypeDescription urlStringThe URL to look up. var response = UrlFetchApp.getRequest(" "); for(i in response) { Logger.log(i + " : " + response[i]); } Parameters NameTypeDescription urlStringThe URL to look up.
