[1] The original pilot episode of the series was aired on September 7, 2003, without many of the main characters of the current version,[citation required] and was ordered by Nickelodeon in early 2004. [2] The finale of the one-hour special aired on June 8, 2007. [3][4] The show was produced by Apollo ProScreen GmbH & Co. Filmproduktion KG in collaboration with Jack Mackie Pictures. Its main executive producer and creator is Scott Fellows,[5] the chief writer for The Fairly OddParents. [1] Declassified Survival of the Ned Premise School The guide follows the lives of Ned Bigby, Jennifer "Moze" Mosely, and Simon "Cookie" Nelson-Cook. The first season takes place during the first semester of the seventh grade, the second season covers the second semester of the seventh grade, and the third season takes place during the eighth grade. Throughout the series, Ned builds a series of tips for his "survival guide", and uses the tips to help himself and his classmates cope with the standard middle school struggles. Each individual episode relates to a topic in the guide, such as popularity, votes, or sports, as well as the development of other plots (such as Ned's life) throughout. Bullock as Mr. Monroe (main role, season 1; recurring role, seasons 2–3) Daran Norris as Gordy (recurring role, season 1; The show takes place at the fanciful James K. Polk Middle School, named after the eleventh president of the United States, James K. Polk. The outside of the school was shot at La Mesa Junior High in Santa Clarita, California. [citation required] The colors of the school are gold and green and its mascot is the wolves, which is a common theme throughout the school. During the first season, all the action of the show took place within the school or its reasons, and with the exception of one or two notable occasions, everything happened inside. However, during the second season, the producers of the show decided to want more external scenes,[citation needed] so more outdoor shots were used, and on some occasions, the show took place out of school property. The final of the show, for example, was almost completely out of the school field. DVD releases In the United States there were four DVD versions made for the series. TEENick Picks, Volume 1 published on 18 April 2006 – features "Guide to: Computer Labs and Backpacks" (Season 1, Episode 9) Special Field Trip Edition released on 28 August 2007 – features "Field Trips, Permission Slips, Signs, and Weasels" and "Guide to: Dismissal and The School Play". The Best of Season 1 [6] and The Best of Season 2 are both released on September 23, 2008 exclusively on Amazon.com. [7] The first season of the Ned's Declassified School Survival Guide was released on DVD in the Netherlands, Australia and Belgium on April 9, 2009. [8] The Netherlands also released the second season, although both seasons were released only with Dutch dubbing. It is not known whether there will be more places in Europe, or elsewhere. Alliance Home Entertainment released the first two seasons on DVD only in Canada. The third and last season was to be published on February 7, 2012 only in Canada, but once again the production was delayed. [9][10][11] The debut of the Ned Declassified School Survival Guide on September 12, 2004, received a score of 4.5, with 914,000 spectators, which was described as "here, but not as a star" ratings by Denise Martin of Variety. [12] Critical Robert Lloyd of the Los Angeles Times, after reviewing the final of the Ned's Declassified School Survival Guide series, stressed that it was "one of the best television series - a show that took gender conventions and managed them through unpredictable changes". In June 2008, Werkheiser signed a development contract with Nickelodeon for a spin-off that would address the adventures of thecharacter in high school. [14] The show has never been greenlit to production, because of the other main actors of the original series being occupied with their own projects - the creator and executive producer Scott Fellows was working on another show Nickelodeon, Nickelodeon,Time Rush; Daniel Curtis Lee was committed to Disney XD's Zeke and Luther; And Lindsey Shaw was working as the advantage over the 10 things of the ABC family I hate you.
