Most departments also have their own regional telephone cooperatives which have their own card telephone networks. At the time of writing the exchange rates were approximately: $\text{Bs}1 = \text{Bs}11$1 = \text{Bs}7\text{A}\text{A}-1 = \text{Bs}10$ You can check the current exchange rates in any Bolivian newspaper or online on wxe.com/ucc. The best way to bring money to Bolivia is to have your funds in different formats: a credit card (or credit cards), some travelcheques and some hidden cash dollars for emergencies, so if one disappoints you, you can turn to another. That said, you can usually get a pretty good national road map, titled Bolivia Highlights, at the municipal tourist office of La Paz, and at the bookshops and tourist agencies of La Paz and other major cities. The plugs are two-pointed with round plugs, but usually you can also use flat plugs in American style. Entry requirement Most visitors to Bolivia do not require a visa, although the situation changes periodically, so always check with the local embassy or consulate a few weeks before travel. Prices in shops and restaurants tend to be fixed, but there is some room for bargaining in the markets, when looking for a hotel room or buying a bus ticket try to ask for a discount (discount). You will also find individual Spanish teachers who offer their services individually in these cities and in the smallest towns of Bolivia. It is better to ask nicely (Puedo sacar una foto? A Can I take a picture?); most people react favorably to this approach, although some may refuse completely or ask for a small fee. TimeBolivia is four hours behind Greenwich Mean Time, one hour ahead of the US and at the equator. To obtain a card and PIN and to find out about fares, contact your national carrier before you leave (see Useful Websites). PhotographerLight in Bolivia is very bright, especially at high altitudes, so use fast film (100 ASA) and a UV polarizer filter. The Internet is another good source of information, and a growing number of websites offer everything about the country, from facts to curiosities and travelers' stories. Most of the main Bolivian cities have a regional tourist office, managed by the city council or the departmental prefecture. Have the mail sent to "Lista de Correos, Correo Central, the city concerned, Bolivia", and make sure your last name is capitalized and as obviously as possible, as your post will be archived under whatever the employee thinks your last name is; if you suspect that something has been sent to you has gone wrong, ask them to check with your name as well. The speed of machines and servers is usually not very fast, especially outside major cities. Some of the better equipped internet cafes also offer phone or Skype services, which allow you to make calls over the internet at the same price as if you were just surfing the net AA by far the cheapest way to call home. More and more hotels, cafes, restaurants and bars in the most touristy areas offer free wi-fi access. Laundry In cities and larger cities there are laundries (laundry) where you can wash clothes in the washing machine for about 10-15 Bs per kilo. High end hotels can arrange this for you. Most Bolivian newspapers now have their own websites. Tour operators and many hotels quote their prices in US dollars eizarG eizarG .ocras li ottut elous ellen ibnabia la odnartsom e icinegi izivres ied aizilup alla itavla llamina ilged aruc alla e
